Key words: manager, management.

Current phase of development of world economy is a transition from industrial society towards the economy which is based on knowledge and skills. Modern economic flows, is the developing impulse to ideas and information, and not in the abundance of raw materials or cheap working strength. U such a global environment, successful are those organizations within and towards the environment develop the ability to quickly learn and use available resources to create innovative products and services.

We live in a time of all fast, dramatic, complicated and unpredictable changes. These changes all the more significant impact on the conduct, operations and management in organizations. In this uncertain, complex and chaotic time, organizations are more necessary than ever managers. Today's managers are faced with redefined ways of doing business in organizations, as well as the relations between workers and managers.

At the workplaces of all types - factories, offices, restaurants, small shops and the like - new technology and new way of organizing work changing the old approach. Managers today need to be able to touch already existing and tested approaches to management with new approaches to people with their knowledge, abilities and skills are most valuable capital of any companies / institutions.

Human potential is the driving force for improving quality and competitiveness. Therefore, it must take account of the active-oriented approach to human beings, their needs, goals, expectations, knowledge and skills
